Editor's Note

The best staff in the world!

It takes a tremendous group effort to put together Beckett Pokémon Collector. Many of you may skip over our Staff Box page (p.2) to get to all the exciting Pokémon pages. But this month I want to introduce everyone who helps create this wonderful magazine.

At the top there's Dr. James Beckett, President and CEO-a mentor to all employees at Beckett and the man who gave this magazine life; Claire B. Backus, Publisher-a sparkling personality who keeps our entire staff functioning like a Dream Team; Omar Mediano, Art Director-a creative prankster whose graphics make our inside pages the best in the business; Jeff Amano, Cover Artist-an illustrator whose talent is only exceeded by his goofy sense of humor; Mark Brewer, Assistant Editor-enthusiastically chips in whenever help is needed and always does a great job; Patty Gorman, Editorial Coordinator-she's the glue that keeps everyone together and without her I would lose my mind; Karen Gray Penhollow, Art Designer-an imaginative person who designs the contest pages that you all love so much; Jenifer Grellhesl, Marketing Coordinator-she's the person who keeps coming up with those great subscription offers and contest promotions; Amanda Raby, Assistant Art Designer (Intern)-she cheerfully assists our lead designers; and Julie Grove and Brenda Weber, Production Assistants-these two ladies do a fabulous job of sorting through the huge amounts of mail from you, our reader!

There are many other great people at Team Beckett who are also instrumental in the success of this magazine. All of us here at Beckett Pokémon Collector, truly enjoy the opportunity to bring you the coolest monthly Pokémon magazine on the planet. ✱

Enjoy!

NEW POKÉMON EPISODES

The Pokémon gang discovers new territories and new Pokémon on the journey to Johto.

When we last left our heroes, they had just started their journey to Johto. They tangled with and defeated Team Rocket once again. Ash, Misty and Brock are also starting to see all of the strange and wonderful new Pokémon.

Episode Title: The Double Trouble Header

Episode Number 313:

Ash is challenged by a young trainer who has even less experience than him. As can be expected, our hero beats the rookie pretty easily.

As it turns out, the young trainer is also part of a baseball team called the Electabuzz. After the team is severely disappointed by their defeat, the trainer runs away before he can dishonor them further. That's when a mysterious pair of baseball coaches appear out of the blue, with a talking Meowth in tow. Yep, it's Team Rocket, and you can bet Ash will have to straighten them out one more time.

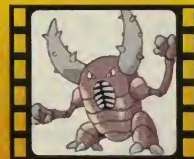

Episode Title: A Sappy Ending

Episode Number 314:

Now registered for the Johto League, Ash and company head off to the first gym on the circuit in Violet City.

Along the way, they come across a ravaged forest. It's being destroyed by a wild pack of Pinsirs who are sucking dry the sap from the trees. This is doubly troubling because a pack of beetle-like Heracross are now starving due to the Pinsir invasion. Ash makes friends with a forest ranger, and together they find the cause of the Pinsirs leaving their area. The problem turns out to be none other than Team Rocket. However, it looks like Team Rocket has the upper hand this time with the aid of a mechanical Pinsir. Ash and the forest ranger could lose everything unless they get help and in a hurry.

Episode Title: Roll On Pokémon

Episode Number 315:

After saving the Johto forests, Ash enters a spacious and deep valley. He is nearly buried alive in an avalanche but manages to get out of that one with all his body parts undamaged.

Not so lucky though is a Donphan. Ash attempts to capture this burrowing Pokémon but is stopped at the last moment by the critters real owner. He learns this valley is rich in jewels and rare metals, and the residents use Donphans to help them mine the valuables.

As you can imagine, Team Rocket isn't that far out of the picture. If stealing another Pokémon isn't enough for them to get into more trouble, stealing a Pokémon that can find rare jewels and metal is absolutely irresistible.

Episode Title: Illusion Confusion

Episode Number 316:

Ash, Misty and Brock get lost again in another fog-bound forest. Along the way they run into Gary, who takes full advantage of their situation to taunt them.

As it turns out, Gary isn't lost because he has a Hoothoot. These large-eyed Pokémon have absolutely no problems traversing dark and difficult forests. Ash finally gets to a clearing where, of all the things, they meet a woman who rents Hoothoots to travelers who want to get out of the forest. The only problem is the last one she has left has a very poor sense of direction.

In part due to Gary's taunting and his own lack of patience, Ash rents the dysfunctional Hoothoot anyway. It isn't long before he, Misty and Brock are lost again, and this forest is loaded with all kinds of nasty-looking Pokémon to boot. It's up to Ash's Hoothoot to save the day, if it can.

Episode Title: Flower Power

Episode Number 317:

Our heroes make it to another town, where they are soon entertained by a traveling troupe of street performers. Among the troupe's specialties are a chorus line of Bellossoms, who have their own Rockettes-like act. Well, almost.

It seems the troupe includes one Bellossom that is only good at tripping over its own roots. Ash volunteers to help get this poor Pokémon to learn its steps. While trying to get to the bottom of the problem, Team Rocket attacks again.

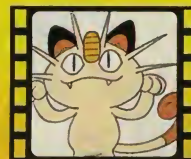

All of a sudden the entire Bellossom troupe start moving at the same time. It seems the dance steps are their own special form of attack and the plant Pokémon soon defeat Team Rocket with some well-placed high steps.

Even though it looks like Team Rocket's out of the picture, this trio never learns. They attack again, and this time it looks like it's going to take more than a few dance routines to defeat them.

Episode Title: Spinarak Attack

Episode Number 318:

Ash, Brock and Misty move on to the town of Cattallia, which once hosted a legendary thief with a super-powerful Meowth. It seems a new pair of thieves have appeared where the old ones had left off, and Cattallia's Officer Jenny is having her hands full trying to stop them.

Now, if there's one thing Brock can't resist, it's to assist Jenny in trouble. As such, Ash and Misty know they better come to Brock's assistance or who knows what will go wrong.

You'd have to be blind not to figure out the new set of thieves is Team Rocket. Can Brock figure out a way to stop them and save Officer Jenny's job? ✨

In our next installment, Ash and company continue their journey to Violet City. Along the way they will meet many new Pokémon, but even more surprising will be Team Rocket. Is it possible that cold-hearted Jessie is capable of a kindly act? Find out next month.

The Trainers of Gym Challenge

Your Pokémon Adventure Continues!

The new Gym Heroes and Gym Challenge Trainer cards are simply great. It's been a long time since we've seen anything as good as original "gotta-have-'em" Trainers of the Base set, such as Professor Oak, Computer Search, Gust of Wind and Energy Removal. Many of the Gym Trainer cards are designed to strengthen decks that feature the unique pocket monsters trained by Blaine, Brock, Erika, Giovanni, Koga, Lt. Surge, Misty and Sabrina, while other Trainers are excellent in just about any deck.

Sounding like something from Star Trek, Warp Point is one of the most useful and flexible new Trainers. It works like a combination Gust of Wind and Switch all rolled into one! Warp Point forces your opponent to switch his or her Active Pokémon with one from their bench. Then you switch your Active Pokémon with one from your bench (if you have any). If you find yourself getting beat down by an opponent's powered up Pokémon, use Warp Point to send it back to the bench and give your poor Pokémon a breather. At the same time, you can send in a fresh Pokémon from your bench as your Active Pokémon. I've used Warp Point in combination with Gust of Wind for great knockouts. Let's say both my Active Pokémon and my opponent's Defending Pokémon are both nearly knocked out, but I lack the energies to retreat. If I have a strong hitter energized on my bench, I play Warp Point - my opponent switches his weakened Defending Pokémon back to his bench (probably secretly thanking me!) then promotes his toughest Pokémon. Then I retreat my nearly-fainted Pokémon for an energized solid hitter from my bench. Then I use Gust of Wind to bring back my opponent's weakened Pokémon as his Active one and knock it out. Warp Point is simply a great Trainer - even the artwork is cool!

The Trainer card Blaine is made-to-order for feeding Blaine's hungry, fire-breathing beasts. It breaks the basic Pokémon TCG rule that says, "you may play only 1 energy card per turn."

Blaine lets you attach 2 Fire energies to any Pokémon with Blaine in its name. For example, Blaine's Arcanine requires discarding 3 Fire energies for its Firestorm attack (at 120 damage, well worth the cost!) Although that's expensive, on your next turn you can use Blaine to attach two more Fire energies to the Legendary Fire Pokémon and fire away with Arcanine's Heat Tackle attack. Don't forget Blaine's colorless Pokémon can benefit from this as well - Blaine's Kangaskhan and Tauros are just as happy living on Fire energy as any other type!

Most Fire Pokémon are afraid of Fire, and Blaine's beasts are no exception. All of Blaine's fiery friends - Vulpix and Ninetales, Ponyta and Rapidash, Growlithe and Arcanine, and Charmander, Charmeleon and Charizard - are weak against Water Pokémon attacks. If you run into a Water deck, the remedy is Cinnabar City Gym. This Stadium Trainer card allows any of Blaine's Pokémon to overcome their weakness to Water attacks. As a Stadium card, Cinnabar City Gym remains in effect as long as it isn't knocked out of play by another Stadium card. If you're counting on Blaine's Fire Pokémon to win the game, include a couple Cinnabar City Gyms in your deck to "waterproof" your team!

Sabrina's Psychic Pokémon are a menacing lot, aided in their mind-bending attacks by the new Trainers Sabrina and Sabrina's Psychic Control. Sabrina lets you take all of the Energy cards attached to one of Sabrina's Pokémon and attach them to another of Sabrina's beasts. Sabrina, like Blaine, allows you to bypass the rule that says, "you may play only 1 energy card per turn." Sabrina can be incredibly useful shifting energy around your team. If one of your fully energized Sabrina's Pokémon is taking damage, Switch it for another Sabrina's Pokémon. Then use Sabrina to transfer all the energy cards from your former Active Pokémon to your new Active Pokémon. You're instantly powered-up for an immediate attack. Don't forget Sabrina's Psyduck and Golduck use Psychic Energies, too!

Sabrina's Psychic Control requires a successful coin flip for heads, then allows you to use a Trainer from your opponent's discard pile. Pay attention to the Trainers your opponent plays, and you might get a chance to use their own Trainer against them! Sabrina's Psychic Control is a bit of "psychological warfare" that will drive your opponent nuts - if you're successful.

As a Pokémon Trainer on TV and in the comics, Erika is filled with kindness - maybe a little too much! Erika's Kindness Trainer card allows both you and your opponent to remove up to 2 damage counters from each Pokémon in play. Naturally you want to use this when your team is more beat up than your opponent's - no sense aiding the enemy if you can avoid it! Erika's Kindness could work well in stall decks toward the end of a game, when your goal is simply to outlast your opponent.

The most unpredictable Gym Trainer is Chaos Gym. This little gem is either the most annoying game disrupter or a crazy way to add more spice to the game! Under the influence of Chaos Gym, whenever either player plays a Trainer card (other than another Stadium card or a Trainer that needs to be attached to a Pokémon), he or she flips a coin. If heads, the player can use it as usual. But if tails, that player cannot use it, and the opponent gets to use it (provided they pay whatever costs are required to use the card). In short, for the rest of the game whenever your opponent tries to play a Professor Oak, Computer Search or Warp Point, he or she must flip a coin. If they get tails, then you have the option of using it yourself. This doesn't apply to playing other Stadium cards (which would knock the Chaos Gym into the discard pile), nor can it be used to hijack Trainers that are attached to Pokémon in play, such as PlusPowers, Defenders, or Brock's Protection. In a deck dedicated to disruption and built with fewer Trainer cards than usual, Chaos Gym can be the final straw to drive your opponent batty! ✨

Wizards Wants You to Work Out with

Gym Challenge!

Just a couple of months after releasing the Gym Heroes expansion set, Wizards of the Coast gave us another early Christmas present: the Gym Challenge expansion set. This set introduced dozens of new versions of Pokémon and awesome Trainers. New attacks and Pokémon powers dared us to devise new decks and injected new life into the game. Are you up to the Challenge?

A PAIR OF KILLER ROCKET POCKET MONSTERS

If you thought Base set Mewtwo and movie promo Mewtwo were great cards, you'll love the new Rocket Mewtwo. This new Genetic Pokémon has three powerful attacks - more than any other Pokémon! Mewtwo's Juxtapose attack allows you to switch the number of damage counters on Rocket's Mewtwo with the number of counters on the Defending Pokémon. Juxtapose is a sure-fire way to overcome the resistance that some Pokémon have to Psychic attacks. Rocket Mewtwo's Hypnoblast attack is excellent as well: with two Psychic Energies attached, it does 20 damage plus the possibility of putting the Defending Pokémon to sleep with a coin flip of heads. Rocket Mewtwo's third attack, Psyburn, requires a lot of energy but delivers 60 damage, helping to overcome the "minus-30" resistance to Psychic attacks enjoyed by many colorless Pokémon. Don't forget that Rocket Mewtwo is counted as a different Pokémon than Base set or Movie Promo Mewtwo. You can include up to four of the new Gym Challenge Mewtwo as well as four of the other varieties of Mewtwo in one deck.

Rocket Zapdos is the third Electric legendary bird of Pokémon TCG. This electrifying line-up started with the big-hitter Base set beast, and carried on to the bench-hitting Fossil Zapdos. New Rocket Zapdos comes with a Plasma attack that breaks the usual energy-spending rules for Zapdos attacks. With just 1 Lightning Energy attached, Plasma does 20 damage and allows you to draw 1 Lightning Energy from your discard pile. It's the only card so far that lets you deliver damage and scrounge for discarded energy at the same time. Electroburn, its second attack, delivers 70 damage to the Defending Pokémon while burning the Electric legendary bird for 10 damage for each Lightning card attached to it. Use this attack with care - after using Electroburn, Zapdos will have 30 or 40 damage on it, and doing another Electroburn will knock out your legendary Electric bird.

NOBODY'S LAUGHING AT THESE DUCKS!

Who would have thought someday we'd have two great Psyducks to choose from? Both Misty's Psyduck and Sabrina's Psyduck mix well in Psychic decks, since they have Psychic-powered attacks as well as Water attacks. My favorite is Misty's Psyduck, with 60 HP and an ESP attack in which you flip three coins. If only 1 is heads, you get to draw one card. If 2 are heads, the attack does 20 damage. If all 3 coins are heads, Misty's duckling gets to copy any attack of the Defending Pokémon without meeting that attack's energy costs (although the duck's attacks still count as Water attacks). An amazing array of attacks for just one Psychic Energy!

Misty's Psyduck evolves to a very tough Misty's Golduck (70HP). You'll need Water Energy to power up its Electro Beam attack for 40 damage - then a coin flip decides whether you have to discard all energy cards attached to the Golduck or not (heads-no; tails-yes). The risk of losing two energy cards to do an Electro Beam might make you hesitate to use it. This Golduck's other attack, Super Removal, can really demoralize your opponent. With just 2 energies attached (1 Psychic and 1 any color) you get to flip a coin: if heads, you're allowed to remove 1 energy card from each of your opponent's Pokémon and discard it. Depending on how many energy cards your opponent has played, Super Removal can be a killer "energy denial" tactic.

Sabrina's Psyduck (50 HP) also uses Psychic energy for its second attack, Random ESP, which again asks you to flip a coin. If heads, the attack does 20 damage and leaves the Defending Pokémon Confused. But tails means the attack fails, doing no damage to the Defending Pokémon and leaving your own Psyduck Confused. It's a risky attack, but if you like to gamble it's worth it. This Duck also has a quick-hitting Scratch attack doing 10 damage, useful in the early game.

Sabrina's Psyduck makes it to the big leagues when it evolves to Sabrina's Golduck (70HP). Sabrina's Golduck knows an amazing Damage Shift attack that lets you move 1 damage counter from each of your own Pokémon to place on the Defending Pokémon. If your opponent has been heaping damage on several of your Pokémon, this would be "pay-back" time! Sabrina's Golduck's second attack, Water Spray, requires a Water Energy plus two of any color to inflict 20 damage (or 40 with a heads coin toss). Even without a crystal ball, I can see a lot of Psychic-Water decks in the future trying to abuse these new attacks.

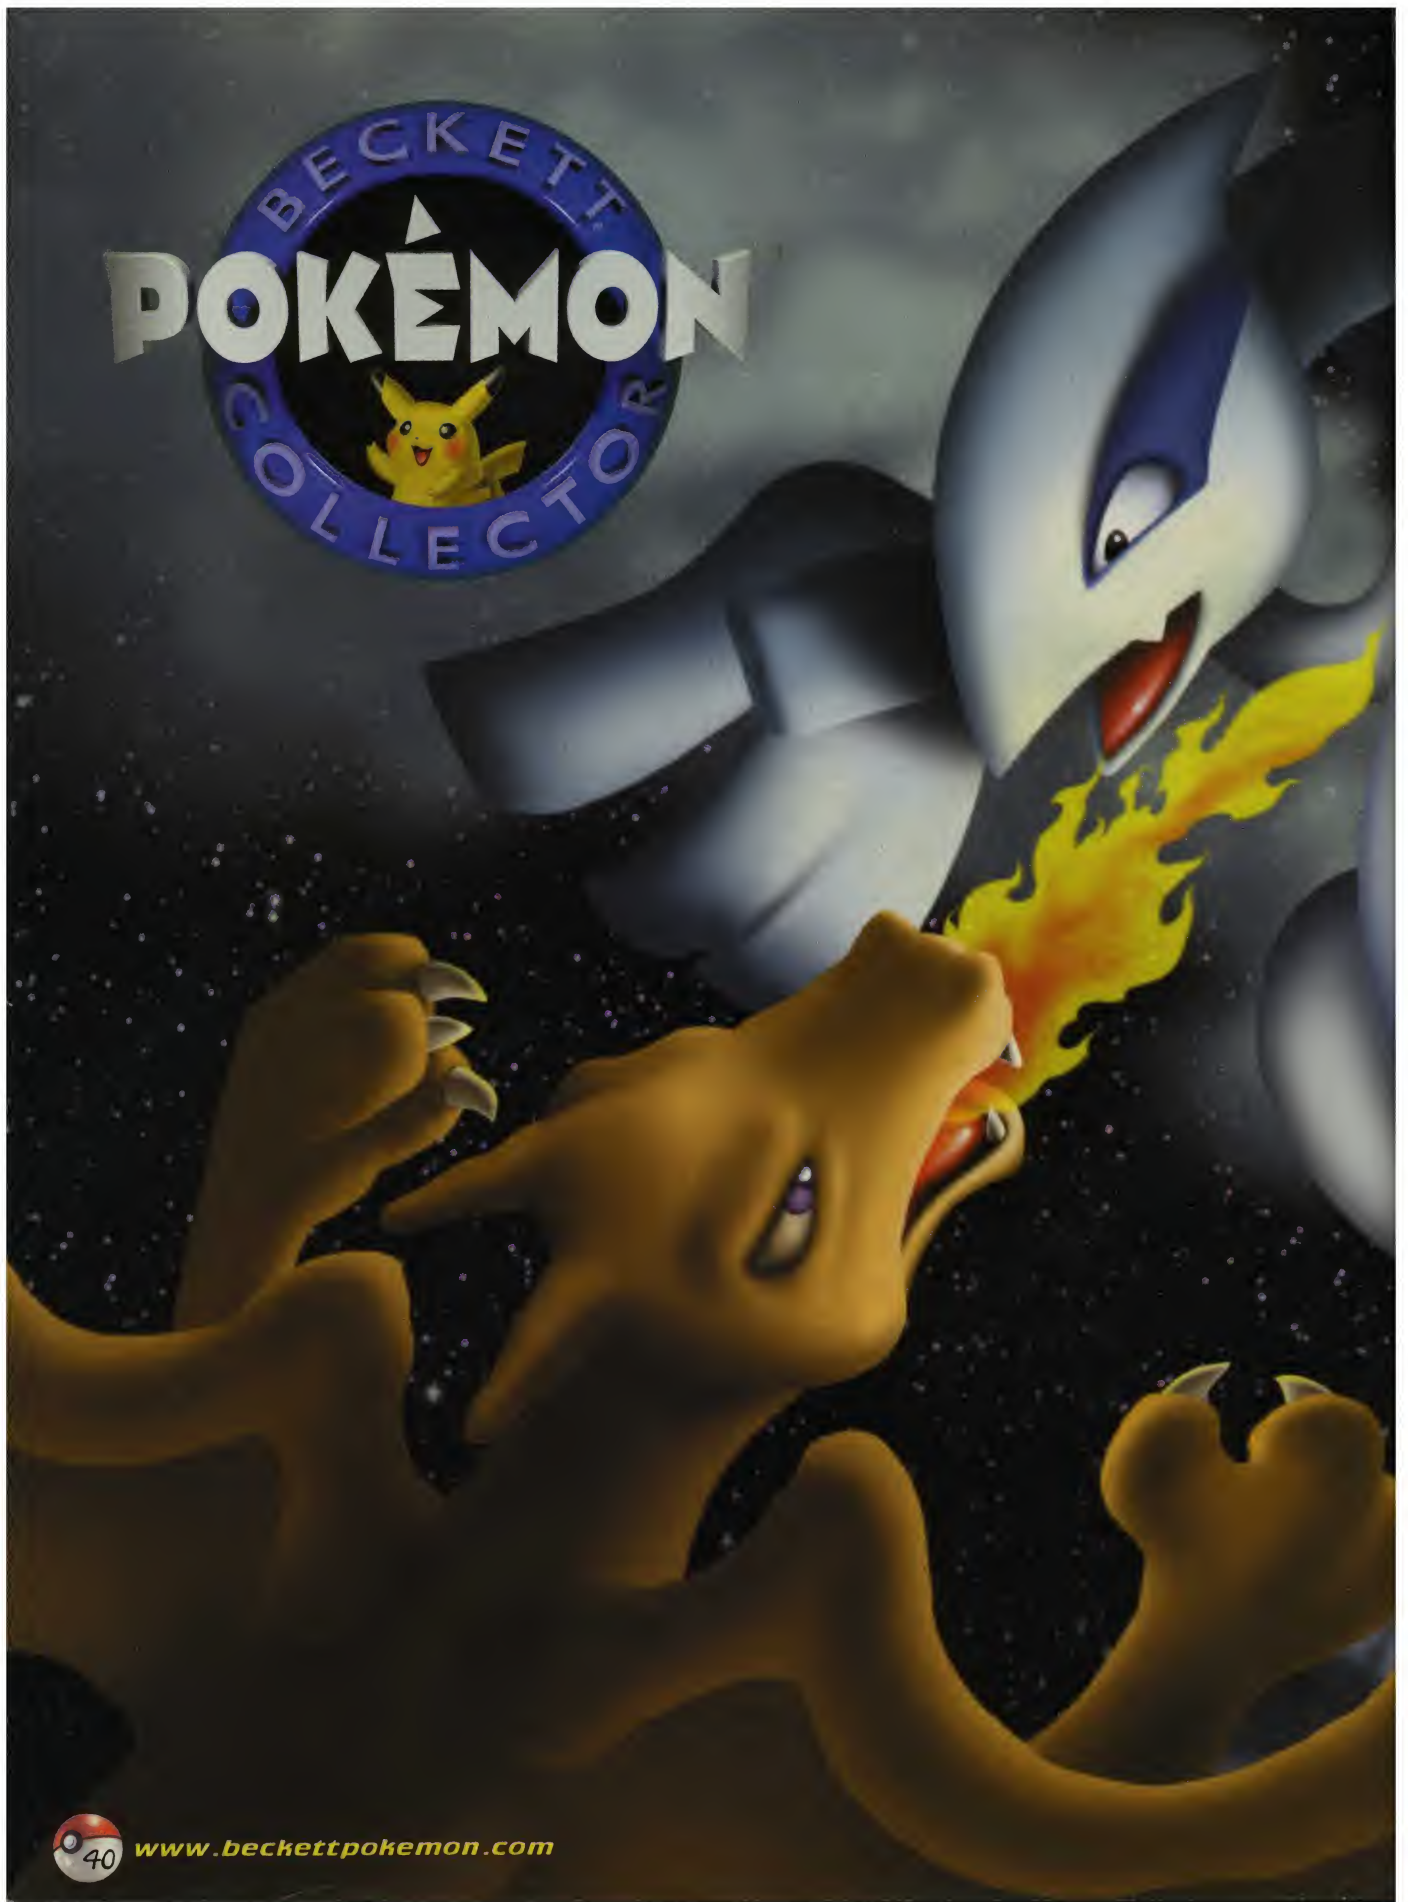

BROCK'S BRAWNY BEASTS

With only 40 HP of health, Brock's Diglett is a bit of a sitting duck on the battlefield. Diglett's Surprise Attack might do 20 damage but requires a coin toss of heads. The tiny Mole Pokémon's Tremor Attack does a solid 40 damage for just two energies (1 Fighting plus 1 any color Energy) but hits your own benched beasts with 10 damage apiece as well. It's probably best not to use this attack unless your bench is almost empty!

Considering its low HP, I suggest you only send out Brock's Diglett if you can evolve to Brock's Dugtrio on your next turn. Brock's Dugtrio's first attack, Lie Low, reminds me of the Dig attack from Pokémon GameBoy -your Active Pokémon burrows under ground for one turn before attacking. This Dugtrio's Lie Low attack reduces any damage done to Dugtrio by 20 on your opponent's next turn. After Lying Low for one turn, you can power up Brock's Dugtrio with a third energy to do an Earthdrill attack for 60 damage! Just imagine - you can knock out Pokémon weak to Fighting attacks (like Chansey) with just one Earthdrill! Although you can only do Earthdrill every other turn (first Lie Low, then Earthdrill, then Lie Low, and so on), a few Brock's Dugtrios will undoubtedly surface in some Fighting decks.

The fascinating and effective attacks of these new Gym cards should inspire you to build a new deck and try some new strategies - the challenge is up to you!

Pokémon

Gold & Silver

Shining In The Eyes Of Pokéfans Everywhere

By Jason R. Rich

From the moment you plug your Pokémon Gold or Pokémon Silver game cart into your Game Boy (Color) system, you'll embark on an exciting adventure filled with new locations to explore and over 100 exciting new Pokémon to find and capture. Much of the basic game play (in terms of how you explore, battle and capture Pokémon) is very much like Pokémon Red, Blue and Yellow, but there are a handful of differences. For example, you can now use the items in your Pack to help you navigate your way around Kanto and Johto, which are the two countries where this game takes place.

If you've already caught, raised and trained Pokémon while playing Pokémon Red, Blue or Yellow, you can transfer them to your Pokémon Gold or Silver game cart using a Game Link cable.

The following tips and tricks will help you successfully navigate through the first part of this latest Pokémon adventure.

Strategy: Once again, you take on the role of a teenage Pokémon trainer who dreams of becoming a Pokémon Master. When the adventure begins, your character will be in his bedroom. Walk downstairs, obtain the PokéGear from your character's mother, then proceed directly to Professor Elm's lab, which is located in the building to the left (in New Bark Town). From the lab, travel west, toward Mr. Pokémon's house (located near Cherrygrove City). You'll be given a special egg by Mr. Pokémon and a PokéDex from Professor Oak. Next, return to Professor Elm's lab back in New Bark Town.

Tip: When you first meet Professor Elm in his lab, he'll give you one Pokémon which will become your Pokémon partner. You can choose between three types of Pokémon. Each will be hidden within a PokéBall sitting on a table inside the lab. The PokéBall on the left contains a Cyndaquil (a fire-type Pokémon). The middle PokéBall contains a Totodile (a water-type Pokémon) and inside the PokéBall on the right is a Chikorita (a grass-type Pokémon).

Strategy: After leaving Professor Elm's lab the second time, travel toward Violet City. Along the way, be sure to pick up as many Potions and PokéBalls as you can afford while visiting the Mart in Cherrygrove City. You'll also want to purchase one or two Antidotes, since several of the wild Pokémon you'll meet up with early on will use poison attacks against your character's Pokémon.

Tip: When you first receive a Pokémon from Professor Elm, its level will be low. You'll want to build up its level early on by participating in as many battles as possible with wild Pokémon. If your Pokémon gets weakened in battle, you can give it a Potion or Berry to replenish some of its HP. Berries can often be found hidden in bushes.

Tip: At the start of the game, you'll be asked to enter in the correct time of day and day of the week. As you play Pokémon Gold or Silver, you'll discover that some Pokémon can only be found during the day, while others come out only at night. To find and catch all of the new Pokémon, you'll need to visit some locations both during the day and at night.

Strategy: One of the objectives of Pokémon Gold and Silver is to visit the eight gyms (there's one located in each major city within Johto) and defeat each Gym Leader in order to earn an Official

Gold & Silver

Pokémon League Badge. The first gym you'll encounter can be found within the north-west corner of Violet City. Johto is the country where the first part of your adventure takes place. As you enter the Violet City Gym, you'll first need to defeat three trainers, before going face to face with Faulkner, the Gym Leader.

By the time you reach this point, the Pokémon given to you by Professor Elm should have reached at least level 10. You should also have already caught at least several other wild Pokémon.

Faulkner will challenge you with two Pokémon, including a level 7 Pidgey and a level 9 Pidgeotto. If the Pokémon Professor Elm gave you is a Cyndaquil, this Pokémon's Ember attack, combined with its Tackle attack, will prove extremely useful for defeating Faulkner's Pokémon.

Tip: Before or after a battle, giving one of your Pokémon a regular Potion will restore 20HP.

Tip: If the Pokémon Professor Elm gave you is a Cyndaquil, it will evolve automatically for the first time into a Quilava when it reaches level 14.

Strategy: After defeating your first Gym Leader, your character will receive a phone call from Professor Elm. You'll be instructed to proceed directly to the Pokémon Center in Violet City. After healing your Pokémon, talk to the guy wearing glasses who is standing next to the counter. He's a friend of Professor Elm's. This person will give your character a Pokémon Egg to carry with you until it hatches. Later, when the egg hatches, call Professor Elm on your cell phone, then return to the professor's lab in New Bark City.

Tip: Just as in Pokémon Red, Blue and Yellow, the best way to capture a wild Pokémon is to first weaken it during a battle. When the rival Pokémon's HP is at least two-thirds depleted, toss out a PokéBall. There are several types of PokéBalls in Pokémon Gold and Silver. A basic PokéBall will capture wild Pokémon, but you may need to try several times before successfully capturing your adversary. Great Balls and Ultra Balls are more powerful and should be used against higher level Pokémon. A Master Ball is very rare, but it will capture a Pokémon 100 percent of the time. The best place to find wild Pokémon is when you walk through grassy areas in between cities.

Tip: Pokémon Gold and Silver are much bigger games than any previous Pokémon adventure. To keep from getting lost as you explore Johto and Kanto, use the map that's provided in your PokéGear.

Strategy: Before leaving Violet City by following the path that leads west (Route 36), stop into the Mart and stock up on Potions, PokéBalls and other useful items. Along Route 36, you'll see a path that leads south. This will take you to the Ruins of Alpha's North Entrance. Here, you can explore ancient caves and discover secrets about Pokémon. Exit out of the Ruins through the East entrance, then follow Route 32 toward Azalea Town. Here, you'll want to earn the Hive Badge from Bugsy, the Azalea Town Gym Leader.

Tip: Every Pokémon is equipped with several fighting moves. Each move has PP associated with it. When you use up that move's PP, the Pokémon won't be able to use it anymore until it is replenished at a Pokémon Center. Each time you heal your Pokémon, the PP for each of its fighting moves gets totally replenished. If the Pokémon you're battling with runs out of PP for its most powerful moves in the middle of a battle, it won't be able to fight. The PP represents how many times a particular move can be used. A Pokémon's HP measure how much energy it has before it faints. Each time a Pokémon receives an incoming attack, some of its HP gets depleted. When a Pokémon's HP reaches zero, it faints.

Strategy: To reach Azalea Town, you'll need to pass through Union Cave. Here, you'll encounter several wild Pokémon, including Zubats and Geodudes, plus trainers who will challenge you to battles. Be sure to pick up the PokéBalls you find on the ground. One will contain a free Potion. You'll also find a Great Ball, X Defend and other useful items on the ground that are hidden within PokéBalls. Remember, you can run away from battles with wild Pokémon in order to get through the cave faster. You can't, however, run away from a battle against a trainer who challenges you. ✱
